

Greg Vogelweid
Chief Operating Officer

Greg is a native St. Louisan and a graduate of St. Louis University. He is a veteran of thirty years experience in financial and operational functions of large St. Louis companies and with St. Patrick Center for the last fourteen years.

In the fall of 1993, Greg came to the Agency as a volunteer, working for Leo Paradis to set up its first automated budget and to help construct the Agency's first Strategic Plan. He has since worked on the two additional strategic plans for the Agency. Greg also was the lead in completing the first accreditation process with the Council on Accreditation. From his first job as Director of Finance, he was promoted to Chief Operating Officer in 2001 after having served as Acting Executive Director for a year during the Agency's Capital Campaign in 2000.

Greg spearheaded the efforts to the donation of the TG Station with the use of tax credits, the donation of Lucas Avenue parking lot with tax credits and the donation and renovation of the Partnership Center.

The Governor of Missouri appointed Greg to the Governor's Committee on Ending Chronic Homelessness in 2003 and was then appointed to the Restructuring Committee for the City' Homeless Network Board in 2005. Greg has consulted with numerous social service agencies on Best Practices for the administration and financial management of an agency.

Greg and his wife Maggie moved into an historic co-op in the City of St. Louis in 2000 and have three grown children and four grandchildren.
